Date: 21.11.2017 (Tuesday)

Time: 11.15 a.m. – 1 p.m.

Venue: Vivekananda Seminar Hall

Name of Resource Person: Dr. Shobdo Chakraborty

No. of Participants: 22

Description: The occasion was graced by the presence of our honorable guest, Dr. Shobdo Chakraborty, who imparted valuable knowledge to the students on the given area. Our students were considerably enriched by his versatility and his way of presenting the content in a simple way. His talk was received favorably by all present and he strove to encourage the participants to ask questions and answered them with remarkable clarity and patience. The session was attended by all students of the department and the chosen topic helped them comprehend and appreciate the undeniable contribution that the Romantic movement has had on subsequent generations and its powerful impact not only on English literature but on literatures on a global scale.

Thrust Area

- Dr. Chakraborty laid special emphasis in his lecture on the scope for research related to the given topic.
- He not only discussed the features of the romantic movement along with its associated writers and their texts but he also extensively spoke on the scope for research within the field.
- He pointed out the major areas where research work has already been undertaken and shared ideas and methods for further study in the area.
- He spoke about the different genres of romantic literature and pointed out the specifications of each genre like poetry, novel, and essay and discussed areas of interest and research within each type.
- His talk provided a fresh perspective on the subject and enabled the students to learn to develop interest in research-related work to further enrich their academic interests and abilities.
